CREW PROFILES

After delving into the realms of maritime navigation and nautical science, Bogdan embarked on his professional mariner journey in the merchant Navy back in 2006. Commencing with his cadetship and assistant officer practices on general cargo and supply vessels, he swiftly transitioned to the yachting industry. Since 2008, he has navigated various vessels, traversing global cruising itineraries. Bogdan, a polyglot fluent in five languages, extends his passion beyond the sea. He finds inspiration in economics, champions human rights, and values critical thinking. Off-duty, he immerses himself in the intellectual pursuits of chess and reading. Bogdan is also a dedicated family man, proudly fulfilling the role of a father to a young boy and a baby girl.

With a rich maritime career spanning two decades, Andrew has navigated the world of yachting starting as a deckhand and working his way up to being a Chief Officer. Beyond the azure expanses of the sea, Andrew enjoys reading books and following Formula 1. For the past 30 years, Andrew has dedicated his leisure hours to the meticulous craft of scratch-building radio-controlled model boats, planes, and impressive 5" gauge steam trains. His expertise in crafting these intricate marvels reflects a passion cultivated over years of dedication and precision. When back in New Zealand, Andrew loves to play ice hockey and indoor soccer.

Grown up in the small Croatian city surrounded by sea, river and mountains. Antonio learned to appreciate nature in his life as it was his playground since the early age. While exploring mountains Antonio was always admiring the sea below, and it led him to choose maritime faculty. After his cadetship on cargo vessels and falling in love with the oceans, yachting seemed more than a fit. Now he is happy to be onboard St. David to see new horizons and to write a chapter in the Caribbean.
